

Mini Case Study

Please choose one of the three companies – Turing, Nanonets, Uptime AI – and prepare an investment memo presentation on the business. Your response should include the requisite components of any investment decision including your considerations and conclusion. Rely on publicly available information or other info you can find/research during the case study.

If selected to move forward, we may dedicate one interview to a 30-minute discussion about the case. There is no right conclusion (especially without being provided critical financial information), but we are trying to assess the questions you ask and the analysis you would consider. If there is critical information that you would like to access to make a more informed decision, please note that info and how you might go about tracking it down.
